

Monroe Commission Meets

The Monroe County Commission met in regular session on October 7, 2015 at the Courthouse.

The County Commission agreed to sign the Memorandum of Understanding with the Board of Education in regards to the reimbursement of expenses for the three Prevention Resource Officers. The Board agreed to the Commission's request to reduce the dollar amount that will be subtracted for the reimbursement amount for the days when an officer is absent. The board originally wanted to deduct $404.65, per officer, per day, from the reimbursement amount if an officer had to be off from work. The Commission agreed to this amount the first year of the levy and then the amount will decrease to $235.85, per officer, per day in years two through five of the levy. The Commission agreed to advertise for a part time, certified, law enforcement officer who can fill in for the Prevention Resource Officers when they have to be off. . It was agreed the hiring of this individual will be more cost effective than the Board deducting the specified amount from the county's reimbursement amount.

Rocky Parsons advised Commissioners that a caver had to be recently rescued from the Scott Hollow cave. He said the caver fell while inside the cave and broke his leg. Parsons praised the county's emergency service agencies on how they handled this particular call. He said they were very professional and everyone on scene worked extremely hard in helping to get this caver out.

Commissioner Gum reported the 911 Center Expansion Project bids will be opened on October 15th and presented to the County Commission for their action.

At the request of Dorothy Larew, the County Commission adopted a resolution declaring the month of October as Breast Cancer Awareness Month in Monroe County. The Commission thanked Ms. Larew and the organization that promotes early detection. In 2015 an estimated 1,360 West Virginia women will be diagnosed with breast cancer and approximately 276 women will die from the disease. Breast cancer continues to be the leading cause of cancer related deaths among WV women.

Commissioner Gum reported that the Hoke Brothers Construction has begun digging the foundation and constructing forms for the foundation for the Solid Waste Authority's future recycling center at the HAM Landfill. Gum, who is serving as Project Director on behalf of the County Commission, reported the contractor should begin pouring the foundation next week. This project is being funded by a grant from the Department of Environmental Protection Agency.

Burman Clark, the county's group health insurance representative, meet with the Commission and advised that Coventry, the company the county currently has group health insurance with, has been purchased by Aetna. Clark said the county and its employees should see a reduction in the amount they are currently paying for health insurance. Currently, the county pays 65% of the premium for an employee with single coverage and the employee pays the remaining 35% and they pay 45% of the premium for those with a family plan with the employee paying the remaining 55%.

Residents of the Heinz Place Apartments, located in Union, appeared before the County Commission. These residents expressed concern over new rules that were recently implemented by the owner of the apartments. Some of these residents felt these new rules were taking away their privileges. Residents complained they can no longer hang a wreath on their apartment door nor could they get together and have a barbecue on premises. The County Commission agreed to contact the owner, RJR Managements and request they send a representative and speak to the residents about these new rules.

The County Commission discussed the upcoming auction of the McGuire Building. The county plans to sell this building at public auction on November 7, 2015 at 10:00 am at the building site. The Commission has entered a contract with Kermit Morgan to sell this property.

Tim Wilson, 911 Director, appeared before the County Commission. Wilson said the 911 Center received 173 law enforcement calls for the month of September, 183 EMS, and 35 fire related calls. He then provided the Wrecker Response Report; Galford's received seven calls, Clarkson's three, Neel's two and Offenberger's, Wilson's and Gore's each received one call. At the request of Wilson, the County Commission voted to enter into an annual service contract with Greener Pastures, Inc., to maintain the 911 Center's three generators. The Commission authorized Wilson to request a proposal from Anderson and Associates detailing how much they would charge to assist the 911 Center in completing the 911 Physical Address conversion. Wilson reported that most areas of the county have been converted to a physical style address except for areas in the southern part of the county including Lindside, Peterstown and Ballard.

Jeff Jones, the county's Emergency Management Director, appeared before the Commission. Jones provided an update on the complaints filed under the county's Unsafe and Unsanitary and Structures and Refuse Ordinance. He said the Monroe and Greenbrier County Local Emergency Planning Committees are still discussing holding a joint mock exercise on the Greenbrier/Monroe county line.
